

The European University Viadrina is an internationally and interdisciplinarily oriented institution located in the twin city of Frankfurt (Oder)–Słubice, spanning both the Polish and German sides of the River Oder. It educates approximately 4,000 students from around the world in degree programs across law, economics, and cultural studies. The university brings the European idea to life in its daily operations, promotes European integration in teaching and research, and—through its community of roughly 300 academic and 300 administrative staff—places special emphasis on fostering effective communication and cooperation with Eastern Europe.

The Faculty of Law invites applications for a

W3 Professorship in Criminal Law, Criminal Procedure Law, and Related Fields,

to be filled as of 1 October 2026. The professorship is intended to strengthen teaching and research at the Viadrina with a particular focus on criminal law, criminal procedure law, and at least one related area of criminal law (in particular media criminal law, economic criminal law, IT criminal law, medical criminal law, or fundamentals) and to contribute to the university's academic profile.

Applicants are expected to demonstrate:

- an outstanding and comprehensive publication record in the fields covered by the professorship;
- the ability to contribute to compulsory criminal law teaching, specialized elective tracks, and exam preparation for the First State Examination ("Unirep");
- a commitment to developing and implementing innovative teaching methods;
- an interest in designing and acquiring externally funded research projects.

Additional desirable qualifications include:

- the ability to teach the subjects of the professorship in English;
- willingness to actively contribute to interdisciplinary projects and degree programs;
- interest in collaborating with practitioners in criminal law and integrating them into teaching;
- readiness to engage in international cooperation, particularly with colleagues from Central and Eastern Europe and especially the Faculty of Law and Administration at Adam Mickiewicz University Poznań;
- demonstrated gender and diversity competence in both research and teaching.

The position is open to scholars who meet the requirements of § 43 of the Brandenburg Higher Education Act (BbgHG). The professorship is tenured.

The European University Viadrina Foundation is strongly committed to diversity and equal opportunity for all employees. It places particular emphasis on implementing gender equality and inclusion measures and expressly encourages qualified female scholars to apply. Further information on the university's support programs and special initiatives is available via the university's job portal.

Please submit your application by 18.01.2026 through the university's appointment portal.

Applications should include: a research and teaching statement (max. 2 pages each), a list of publications, five selected publications, a list of teaching activities and teaching evaluations, and a list of externally funded projects. All documents can be uploaded through the appointment portal after completing the form fields.
