

EINLADUNG

Prof. Paul Zalewski lädt zum Gastvortrag im Rahmen des internationalen Moduls am Masterstudiengang Schutz Europäischer Kulturgüter ein:

Cultural heritage in the Netherlands: towards integrated approaches

As in other countries throughout Europe the Netherlands have an elaborate infrastructure for each of the traditional heritage sectors: museums, archives, monuments and sites, archaeology, etc. Before 1990 the term "cultural heritage" was not used in government documents. During the last twenty years we see a strong tendency to integrate the heritage sectors and to develop integral policies, using "cultural heritage" as umbrella term. On a local level new types of institutions are created expressing a similar approach. Thus, gradually a new infrastructure emerges, replacing the old ones. This involves new concepts of professionalism requiring new approaches to practice, theory and ethics.

The lecture will be held in English, but there will be an opportunity for questions and discussion in German.

11. Oktober 2010, 13:15 – 16.00 Uhr, Collegium Polonicum - Słubice, ul. Kościuszki 1, Raum 19

Peter van Mensch is professor of cultural history at the Reinwardt Academie (Amsterdam). Until recently he was senior lecturer of theoretical museology and professional ethics as well as course-director of the International Master Degree Programme in Museology at the same institution. He earned his PhD degree at the University of Zagreb on the basis of a thesis on the theory of museology. As researcher he is interested in developing an integral and integrated approach to heritage.
